Not a Fool
Not a Mere Suicide
Wiggle-Wobble Land

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1920.

We all bow reverently before decisions from those that make a specialty of divine wisdom, but sometimes we are puzzled.

For instance, Bishop Quayle of the Protestant Church, speaking at an Ocean Grove camp meeting, said of MacSwiney, dying in Brixton prison: "He is posing as a martyr, when he is a fool." Something similar was said by the crowd standing on the ground while the founder of Christianity was dying. They mocked Him, saying:

"He saved others; himself He cannot save. If He is the King of Israel, let Him now come down from the cross and we will believe Him."

Father Vaughan, brother of the English cardinal, is alleged to have said that he would not give extreme unction to MacSwiney because, starving himself to death voluntarily, "he was committing suicide, which is a sin."

Had he been present would he have refused extreme unction to the One dying on the cross? That was voluntary death, for certainly Father Vaughan believes that the Son of God had power by the exercise of His will to save Himself. His physical life, and annihilate all about Him.

And what about a soldier in war, leading a forlorn hope that must surely end in death? Is he a suicidal criminal or a hero?

The Reverend Father J. E. Sheehy, in the Catholic News of July 17 last, explained quite clearly the difference between the suicide that is a crime and the courageous, willing death that is a virtue. The Bible expresses it clearly also: "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

MacSwiney, giving up his life for his country, for all his friends, is NOT a fool, and he IS entitled to any spiritual comfort.

Mr. Cox, it is said, resents the statement that his party has "wiggled and wobbled."

Didn't the Democrats wiggle into Mexico and then wobble out and bury a few Americans? Doesn't Mexico, for good reasons, think that this is a Wiggle-Wobble country, not to be taken too seriously? Didn't we wiggle and wobble in the flag-saluting episode?

Didn't this country wobble into Siberia and wiggle out, none too gloriously, after some Americans had been shot and some American had been frozen? Can you blame Russia for not taking seriously a "wiggle-wobble" administration that sends Mr. Elihu Root as head of a commission to deal on friendly terms with a revolutionist?

Did not this nation wobble into an aircraft program and then let the gentlemen concerned wiggle out after they had partly wasted and partly stolen a thousand million dollars?

Hasn't this country followed a wiggle-wobble policy on the high cost of living, public officials moaning bitterly while prices went up?

"Slithy Tove" was just the name for that "Alice in Wonderland" creator, and "wiggle-wobble" is exactly the name for the kind of government this country has had for some time.

P. S.—In the language of our English cousins that wrote the League of Nations, the United States is "fed up" on wiggle-wobble.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., says "It was the Republican party that fought the war. There was not a male representative of the chief official family of the national Democratic administration within range of a gun fired by the enemy."

As to the last statement, PERHAPS. As to the "Republican party" statement, NO. There was a Democrat down South who had a good deal to do with "fighting the war." He is said to have captured fifty Germans and killed several. The war was not fought by Republicans and not fought by Democrats, but by AMERICANS. And neither as Democrats nor Republicans, but as AMERICANS, the people should unite at this next election to defeat the WAR League of Nations and keep in this country the right to decide about future wars.

Submarine S-5, according to dispatches received by the Navy Department today regarding the rescue of the crew of the craft, which was submerged for more than thirty-five hours.

Although in a greatly weakened condition, Lieutenant-Commander Cook remained aboard his vessel during all of the rescue work, a message received here stated, and was the last man taken aboard the rescuing vessel.

RAIL TO SETTLE DOCK STRIKE

MacSwiney Protest Tieup Intensified by Freight Handlers

British steamship companies continued to load their ships under difficulties today in the face of the strike of Boston longshoremen and railroad freight handlers in protest against the treatment accorded Lord Mayor MacSwiney.

Conferences between union agents, contracting stevedores and steamship agents were fruitless.

Cunard line agents induced thirty longshoremen to start loading the liner Anglo-Mexican at the Boston & Albany docks in East Boston. The men stopped at the end of an hour, however, because the gangs were not full, as is ordered by union regulations. Agents of the line tried to secure two full gangs each of twenty men.

The Cunard line was further embarrassed today by the completeness of the strike of railroad freight handlers. All the handlers at the Boston & Albany terminal went out. As there are twelve cars of cargo for the Anglo-Mexican still unloaded, it is possible the ship may sail without them.

Two gangs of longshoremen were loading the Leyland liner Caledonian at the same docks. This company was particularly hard hit by freight handlers' strike, as much of its cargo is still in the cars.

Seventy negro strike-breakers were at work on the Leyland liner Nicosian, due to sail for London last Tuesday. It was expected by company agents the Nicosian would be ready to go out before night.

CATHOLIC CHANCELLOR URGES WOMEN TO VOTE

Manchester, N. H., Sept. 3.—"Every American woman should vote," is the substance of a statement today by the Rev. J. S. Buckley, chancellor of the Catholic diocese of Manchester. Every woman, not only can claim this right, but she should consider the exercise thereof a sacred duty."

COAL STRIKE TO BE KEPT GOING, SAY MINERS

MRS. DE VALERA'S WIFE TO VISIT HUB

Expected to Accompany Husband to Big Protest Meeting at Mechanics Hall, Sept. 12

Mrs. Eamon de Valera, wife of the President of the Irish Republic, has been invited to pay her first visit to Boston.

Local societies and supporters of the Irish cause have arranged a mass meeting for Sunday, September 12, in Mechanics Hall, at which De Valera will be the chief speaker.

Plans for an elaborate reception to the "First Lady of Ireland" are being formulated. They include a reception at the hotel where the party will stop, and other festivities. They will be pushed along with rapidity once it is definitely established just when the De Valera party will arrive in this city.

Representatives of the various societies which have the meeting in charge met at Deacon Hall and made plans for the event. A special messenger from New York brought the assurance of President de Valera that he would attend and speak.

On Saturday night another meeting will be held at Dudley Hall, Dudley and Washington streets, Roxbury, at which the final plans will be made. Women representatives of the societies first broached the subject of this reception and later all branches joined heartily in it.

More than a score of Irish and labor organizations have pledged their support to the mass meeting. Included in the membership of these are many World War veterans who will form a guard of honor to the President. A number will also carry placards at the demonstration protesting against the indignities offered Terence MacSwiney and Archbishop Mannix.

EAMES CARRIES FIGHT TO OPPONENT'S DISTRICT

Former Senator Edward B. Eames of Reading, candidate for Republican nomination for the Governor's Council, tonight carries his fight against ex-Senator Charles Sumner Smith of Lowell into Witham, the business centre of Smith's former senatorial district, to give Smith opportunity to defend the record he made while both were in the Massachusetts Senate. Eames charges that Smith represented the classes rather than the masses, that he strenuously opposed the forty-eight-hour bill, the two-platoon system, numerous humanitarian measures and equal suffrage for women.

LAWSON LOANED WARE $17,000

Money Was to Finance Gay-Tex Oil Company, Accused Broker Says

George L. Ware, Congress street broker, charged with using the mails to defraud, testified today in the Federal building hearing that he borrowed $17,000 from Thomas W. Lawson to be used in financing the Gay-Tex Oil Company.

The loan was secured the day before Christmas, he testified, and Lawson was given 10,000 shares of Massachusetts Mutual Divide, of which company Ware is president.

After this transaction Ware said he made many attempts to see Lawson again, and was eventually referred to Everett C. Farr.

Ware had previously testified that the Gay-Tex was turning out 2,000 barrels a day of refined oil at $3.25 a barrel.

A letter written August 17, said Ware would have made big money if he had been able to go through with the original plan, and that it was not then too late.

Ware said he had several conversations with Farr in regard to raising money for this project, and believed from what he was told that he would be able to finance Gay-Tex for the benefit of Mutual Divide.

GUNMAN FIRES ON TWO IN AUTO

Providence, Sept. 3.—A mysterious "tall, thin man," was sought by the police today in connection with the murder of Miss Rose V. McKenna and the probably fatal shooting of her fiance, William J. Deignan, on the Barrington Parkway in East Providence.

This man, said to have been wearing a handkerchief mask, was described by Deignan at the Rhode Island hospital, where his name was placed on the danger list and his condition said to be critical.

According to Deignan the double shooting occurred as he was driving slowly through the Parkway, the murderer pouring a stream of bullets into the car after he had attempted to hold it up.

One theory was that an enraged husband made a mistake in the automobile and its occupants.

Both the McKenna and Deignan families are highly respected and it was said that there was no reason why the couple should be involved in any such affair.

Deignan, who conducts a grocery market at No. 185 Richmond street, left this city, taking Miss McKenna for a ride. They covered considerable ground before reaching the park way. Suddenly another auto, which the police believe had trailed McKenna's car from Providence, drew up alongside the Deignan machine and one man who leaped from the car opened fire.

A bullet passed through Miss McKenna's right arm and pierced her lung, causing her immediate death. Deignan was rendered unconscious by bullet wounds.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT HURRIES MORE TROOPS TO IRELAND

Special Mass Celebrated for Dying Lord Mayor of Cork in Brixton Jail

which has stained the name of Great Britain's honor in the eyes of the civilized world." It adds "Death in prison would bring a terrible explosion of anger."

At Mayor MacSwiney's request, his wife and two sisters were present this morning in Brixton jail infirmary when a special mass was celebrated.

"This may be the last devotional service we will all attend together," said Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, the wife.

Annie MacSwiney, a sister, read from "Meditations on Christ" to her brother, but he was so low both physically and mentally that his attention wandered and he lost interest.

MacSwiney fainted in his bed due to the strain caused by the utterance of "Thank God." He gasped the two words after his sister Mary read him a telegram from Patrick McCartin in the United States entreating the Pope that the American administration would intervene.

The advices from his bedside after the fainting said that he was not suffering excess from acute palpitations of the heart. He was told that the Pope had recited the prayers for the dying for him after mass in the private Vatican chapel Wednesday. The Mayor has had ab food for twenty-two days.

The prison doctor declared that it would not be possible to move MacSwiney even if the government did release him.

DISAGREE WITH FR. VAUGHN.

Father Vaughn's pronouncement that he would not administer the rites of the church to a hunger striker because a hunger strike and attempt at suicide has aroused a storm of opposition. The majority of churchmen emphatically disagree with him.

Sir Hamar Greenwood, chief secretary for Ireland, in an interview telegraphed from Lucerne where he consulted with Premier Lloyd George, is quoted as saying:

"The government's decision is adamant. The matter is closed so far as it is concerned. If Sinn Fein had been content to accept anything less than complete independence, the Premier's proposal to meet its leaders would not have remained unanswered. The Premier is still ready to meet responsible representatives of Sinn Fein."

3,000 Brooklyn Dock Workers Join 'MacSwiney Strike'

By International News Service.

New York, Sept. 3.—Three thousand dock workers employed at Brooklyn piers refused to do further work today on British vessels until Terence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, is released from Brixton jail, Archbishop Mannix allowed to visit Ireland and the British troops withdrawn from Erin.

The dock workers following a mass meeting showed telegrams claiming that similar action had been pledged by Irish sympathizers and dock workers at Galveston, New Orleans, Newport News and Philadelphia while at Boston an anti-British strike already was underway. The International Longshoremen's Union repudiated the action of its members who quit their posts on New York piers several days ago when British ships were being loaded. International officers said such strikes violated working agreements.

ARRAIGN 2 YOUTHS FOR DORCHESTER HOUSE BREAK

Charged with breaking and entering the home of Harry M. Levine of No. 5 Nottingham street, Dorchester, and ransacking the house of silverware and jewelry, valued at several hundred dollars, Manuel Sousa, seventeen years old, of No. 215 Elm street, East Cambridge, was arrested while loitering about the house. His alleged accomplice, George Brennan, eighteen, of No. 2985 Washington street, Roxbury, was later taken into custody. They were arraigned in Dorchester court today.

HARDING TO HIT LEAGUE HARDER

By International News Service.

Marion, O., Sept. 3.—In the week since Senator Harding made his speech advocating the junking of the League of Nations and the revision of The Hague tribunal, the response from the country has been so pleasing that from now on the league issue will be pressed harder, it was said today.

In addition to hundreds of telegrams which have poured into Harding headquarters, the Senator has laudatory editorial comments from Republican newspapers from coast to coast.

COLBY WARNED BY COALITION

Threaten Blow at Democrats If He Protests to Britain on MacSwiney

Protest to Secretary of State Colby against the proposed interference in the MacSwiney case in Great Britain was made by The Loyal Coalition in a telegram to the State Department. The telegram to Secretary of State Colby follows:

"Americans are astounded to read in all newspapers this morning that you will make protest, probably official, to the British government concerning the MacSwiney case. The starvation from which he is suffering is self-inflicted. The case is not in any sense a proper concern of the government of the United States.

"Americans are, being exasperated to an unbearable degree by the continual meddling with our government by professional Irishmen in the name of insurrection which gave aid and comfort to our enemies in the late war.

"Most of all, Americans are impatient at the apparently increasing subordination of principle and patriotism by public men in the interest of partisan expediency. Your Republican opponents proclaim their intention of inaugurating a complete reversal of foreign policy. As to such a change, this organization has no attitude.

"The voters seem divided upon the question. But if the Democratic administration compromises itself by interference in the Irish question, thus bringing the government of the United States into ridicule and contempt and giving serious offense to a great and friendly power, then all Americans worthy of the name, regardless of political affiliations or convictions on subjects of lesser importance will be unanimously of the opinion that an immediate and complete reversal of policy is imperative.

"We are sending copy of this telegram to President Wilson, Governor Cox and the press.

"DEMAREST LLOYD, President

3 'WIVES' CLAIM BOXER'S BODY

Remains of "Flash" Rogers Are Finally Given to Texas Woman for Burial

After three women had claimed the body of Manuel A (Flash) Rogers, alleged suicide, Medical Examiner Brickley turned the remains over to Mrs. Ruth Rogers of Houston, Texas, for burial.

The three women all claimed to be the wife of the soldier-boxer, who died from inhaling illuminating gas in a South End lodging house.

A woman called on the phone and claimed the body. She stated that her husband of the same name as the boxer was missing. Her description tallied in every detail with the body, excepting a scar which she described on the left knee.

Mrs. Ruth Rogers, to whom the remains were given stated she met Rogers while he was a soldier stationed at Camp Houston, Texas, in October 1917, and lived with him ever since except for the period he spent overseas during the war. She said she parted from her husband about a week ago after a quarrel.

Rogers' army discharge papers showed that he was abroad during the period that Mrs. Rogers of New Bedford, claimed to have lived with him at Revere Beach and they turned the remains over to the woman he married in Texas.

Ellis Island Aliens Fight for Sugar

New York, Sept. 3.—Ellis Island witnessed a "sweet" battle among the 1,750 immigrants quartered here.

When sugar made its appearance on the tables in the dining room for the first time since the war, the riot started. When the smoke cleared several badly bruised aliens were removed to the hospital, many with fractured ribs.

When "war" was declared on a few who tried to pocket the sugar bowls, guards, waiters and kitchen employes were mobilized for the attack. Quiet was restored with difficulty. Many of the aliens had not tasted sugar in four years. Small individual packages will be distributed hereafter.

RISKS LIFE TO SAVE CREW

ing ship, the U. S. S. Atlantheus.

His condition was reported to be serious, although he was responding to treatment.

An early dispatch received here stated:

"S-5 partially flooded. Crew and officers saved and tow aboard U. S. S. Atlantheus, bound for Delaware Breakwater. Submarine resting little below surface at sixty degrees. Captain last man to leave ship, although in bad condition, recovering. Men recovering."

No mention was made in the dispatch of the method of rescue, but officers in the Navy Department assume that rescue vessels had succeeded in lifting the submerged submarine out of the water far enough to permit cutting a hole through her sides, through which the crew and officers were taken.

Commander Cook is from Arkansas. Other officers detailed to the S-5 on August 1 were Lieutenant J. G. Grosbman, Ensign J. Bailey Long, staff of Nebraska, and Gunner Robert Holt of Indiana.

The accident to the S-5 occurred when she made a "crash dive" which caused her to be partially flooded, a Her dispatch stated. Officers, lacking complete information, were at a loss to explain just how the ship had become flooded while making the dive.

A dispatch received this morning from the General Goethals was as follows:

"Submarine S-5 partly flooded while making a crash dive. Latitude 38.38, north; longitude 74.62, west. Crew and officers all safe. Request press and relatives be notified. S-5 at an inclination of 60 degrees down by the bow. Lashed to S. S. Atlantheus, being towed Delaware Breakwater. Boat can be salvaged. Crew and officers still aboard Atlantheus."

Lieutenant-Commander Cook was in command of the submarine K-2 in 1918, when a battery exploded on that ship in the Brooklyn Navy Yard, causing several deaths. A court of inquiry exonerated Cook, placing blame upon faulty construction.

Telephone Buoy Saved S-5's Crew

By International News Service.

New York, Sept. 3.—Four officers and twenty-four men, the crew of the United States submarine S-5, were safe today after submersion in their disabled vessel almost forty-eight hours off the Delaware capes. A radio message received early today at the Brooklyn Navy Yard said the merchant ship Atlantheus was towing the disabled undersea boat to the Delaware Breakwater.

The S-5 was on the way from Boston to Baltimore, and was due to arrive at the latter port this morning. The purpose of the submarine going to Baltimore was to stimulate navy recruiting and to complete the quota of the crew.

Destroyers Break Record Speeding to Submarine

By International News Service.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 3.—Speeding at the terrific rate of nearly a mile a minute, the United States destroyers Preston and Breckinridge reached the submerged submarine S-5 shortly after 2 o'clock this morning.

They made the run from Hampton Roads naval base to the scene of the submarine accident, a distance of 115 miles, in slightly more than two hours. It was said to be the speediest dash a United States naval unit had ever made in going to the assistance of a disabled ship.

The two destroyers passed the battleship Ohio shortly after midnight, although the larger ship had left Lynhaven Roads an hour ahead of them.

BURRELL'S FATE RESTS WITH SPECIAL BODY OF 5 REPUBLICANS

GOVERNOR DEMANDS FACTS

Question of Impeachment Will Go Before Legislature if Warranted

The fifth investigation of State Treasurer Fred J. Burrell—and the one which may lead to impeachment proceedings against him—began today, when a special committee of members of the Legislature entered into private conference with Governor Coolidge.

Appointed by him, the committeemen heard from the Governor just what action he expects them to follow in the latest Burrell probe.

"You are hereby appointed to serve on a committee to investigate the conduct of Fred J. Burrell, treasurer and receiver-general, in relation to the deposits of money of the Commonwealth in his hands in the different banks and his reasons therefor and report such facts as you may discover in connection therewith to me forthwith," Governor Coolidge said in his letter to them.

AUTHORITY OF IMPEACHMENT.

He said later in a formal statement: "I thought a committee of the Legislature might properly investigate Mr. Burrell, because they (the Legislature) are the only ones having jurisdiction over him."

This "jurisdiction" stated by the Governor includes the authority of impeachment, the only method, yet formally discussed, to oust Burrell before the expiration of his term next January.

Continuing, Governor Coolidge said: "They will investigate to determine whether he has conducted the office properly and to determine whether there has been misconduct and malfeasance."

He said at that time that the charges against Burrell included only the alleged use of his public office to obtain advertising contracts for his advertising agency from banks which are State depositories.

Whether the special committee will make its investigation in public, at open sessions, with sworn witnesses and offering the opportunity to Burrell to be present and defend himself was said to be under discussion at the conference with Governor Coolidge today.

REPORT BEFORE PRIMARIES.

Governor Coolidge said that he "saw no reason" why the investigation couldn't be completed before the primaries next Tuesday. His letter to the committee men directs them to report "forthwith."

Burrell's friends may be anxious to have the investigation completed at once, or, at least, to give Burrell the opportunity to be heard before Tuesday has turned up gone.

The Committee can recommend to the Governor that he recommend impeachment proceedings against Burrell to the special session of the Legislature in November. It also has authority to say to the Governor that the Committee, itself, will recommend action against Burrell by the Legislature.

COMMITTEEMEN REPUBLICANS.

All five committeemen are Republicans. All five are prominent in the Legislature. Senator Frank G. Allen of Norwood, will be the next President of the Senate; Senator Walter E. McLane of Fall River, is the Republican floor leader, the "right eye" of President Edwin T. McKnight, who is interested in the imposing chain of banks; Representative Benjamin Loring Young of Weston, will be the next Speaker of the House; Representative Frank E. Lyman of Easthampton, is chairman of the ways and means committee; Representative Wesley E. Monk of Watertown, was chairman of the committee on reconstruction.

'Talk Strike' Keeping Prisoner Behind Bars

Talking too much has sent many a man into prison, but failure to talk is responsible for Patrick J. Hanley, serving a twenty-five-year sentence in Charlestown, as an habitual criminal, being in that institution today.

"Corkey" as Patrick is known among the inmates of the prison, has been on a "talk strike" for eight years. He was eligible for release on parole a few years ago, but he would not talk to the members of the parole board. He went back to his cell and is serving out his sentence, which will expire in a few months.

Warden Elmer E. Shattuck visited "Corkey" a few days ago and informed the prisoner that Hanley's two sisters, who live near Boston, were willing to give him a home if he would ask for parole. Warden Shattuck informed the prisoner that he would intercede for him if he would make a verbal request. "Nothing doing," Corkey wrote on the pad of paper which he carries to ask and answer questions.

ONLY A TUNELESS WHISTLE.

The State experts who investigate the workings of the human mind have failed to trap Hanley in his speech. Warden Shattuck and Deputy Hendry greet him daily. Hanley's mouth puckers, and all the acknowledgment the warden receives is a tuneless whistle.

The relatives of the prisoner call on him. They, too, are included in the "talk strike." Once in a great while "Corkey" will shake or nod his head in response to a question.

"Corkey" is near sixty years of age. Thirty-four of these years he has spent in prison. Some have supposed that this talk strike is a silent protest against an "iniquitous system." Not so; Corkey's protest is directed solely against his tongue that can no longer wag.

The talk strike began some eight years ago. At that time they had two baseball nines at the prison. Rivalry was intense. Betting of tobacco ran high. "Corkey" had exhausted his supply of tobacco. So he bet a half-dollar against a fellow prisoner's supply of tobacco.

"Corkey" lost. That night his fellow prisoner tested the half-dollar. The money proved to be spurious and a howl of rage went up. The indignant inmate charged "Corkey" with "shoving some queer" on him.

TALKED TOO MUCH.

At first "Corkey" merely smiled at the charge and declared that he did not know the coin was counterfeit. It was a difficult job to deceive the warden, but "Corkey" might have succeeded if it had not been for his tongue.

"Corkey" boasted that he could produce more of the coin. The boastings reached the warden's ears. Hanley's cell was searched. Several half-dollars were found under his mattress and a plaster of paris mould in his vest pocket. Day in and day out, "Corkey" has since positively refused to speak to any one.

He was sent to the Hospital for the Criminal Insane in Bridgewater for observation on January 16, 1902, and remained there until May 5, 1906. Physicians have pronounced him able to talk.

CYANIDE DEATH PUZZLES POLICE

New Jersey Engineer Found Poisoned Under Mysterious Circumstances

Newark, N. J., Sept. 2—Suicide, murder or accident? Police, aided by chemical experts, are trying to discover which of these three explain the death of Franklin B. Williams, chief engineer of Whitehead & Hoag company, who was found dead of cyanide poisoning in his home Tuesday night.

Cyanide kills instantly, yet nowhere near the body nor in the entire Williams household could a cyanide container be found. Chemists testified that the cyanide found in the dead man's body was not in tablet form, but in solution.

Physicians assert that had Williams taken the poison himself he would not have had the strength to leave the bed and hide the bottle. Investigation of the personal history of the dead man disclosed that he had recently happily married the woman he had loved in youth and was prepared to retire to a farm near here.

Asked his opinion on how death came, County Prosecutor J. H. Harrison said: "From the chemical analysis I would say that either theory might hold. It might be a case of suicide or might be death from extraneous circumstances."

Mrs. Williams told of the romance. He was a young man and she a girl of fourteen when they first knew each other. Various things had separated them. She married twice and had seven children by her two husbands. Recently they met and married.

U. S.-JAPANESE CRISIS NEAR

Uneasiness of Far Eastern Problems Is Evident in Washington

By International News Service.

Washington, Sept. 3.—Regardless of official assurances emanating from both sides to the controversy, genuine uneasiness over existing Japanese-American differences has permeated official circles here.

At the Japanese Embassy a high official told the International News Service today that beyond domestic questions would be settled, "in a spirit of open frankness and sincere friendship," but at the State Department Secretary Colby would not discuss the situation for publication.

It is no secret from official and diplomatic Washington, however, that "conversations" of far reaching consequences are now under way between the American capital and Tokio and that these discussions, far from dealing with the California-Japanese dispute alone, or with the occupation by the Japanese of the northern half of Sachalien Island embrace the whole problem involved in the Far Eastern policies of both powers.

Before the negotiations are terminated, it is understood, not only must an agreement be arrived at on Japanese immigration, but the policy of the "open door" in the Far East must become the subject of an understanding as well.

One of several "startling predictions" mentioned today was that of James Hamilton Lewis, former United States Senator from Illinois, who in a speech before the American Bar Association at St. Louis said there would be another world war within four years and that "the conflict will be in the Pacific."

FORGERY FOUND ON PONZI NOTES

Auditor Pride's Final Report Shows That Many Notes Were Raised

Evidence that notes issued by Charles Ponzi have been raised is contained in Federal Auditor Edwin L. Pride's final report to U. S. District Attorney Daniel J. Gallagher, just made public.

Many duplications in the numbers of Ponzi notes were found in the mass of documents at his disposal, giving rise to the belief that many of them were forged. Ponzi himself made the charge shortly after his arrest when he was shown that his liabilities would run into several millions.

PAYMENTS EXCEEDS VALUE.

Payments were made by Ponzi for amounts greatly in excess of the value of the note as shown by the stubs, according to Mr. Pride. This would have resulted from the note being raised or through gross error. The fact that there were many cases of disparity in the amount on the note and the stub supports the belief that many of the notes were deliberately raised.

Mr. Pride states that Ponzi issued notes for double the amount of money he received for them. Thousands of dollars, he said, was paid out with only the memorandum "payment due this days."

Ponzi's liabilities today, according to the papers in the possession of Mr. Pride, are $6,948,267.88.

Ponzi issued notes for $14,872,327.09, and for these he received in cash the sum of $9,977,448.61. On notes redeemed he paid $7,276,959.17.

Mr. Pride concludes in his report that Ponzi had approximately 40,000 "investors."

Ponzi will be able to pay approximately thirty cents on the dollar taking into account Mr. Pride's report of his liabilities and his present assets, it is estimated.

The Federal auditor states, however, that with the data at his disposal he is not convinced that his report shows the exact amount of Ponzi's liabilities. He points out that he has no assurances that all the material necessary to a complete audit has been turned over to him. Many valuable papers bearing on the case, he says, were in the possession of Attorney-General Allen and not available to him.

According to the auditor promissory notes were given out by Ponzi for which he received no money in return.

He found evidence of a marked difference in Ponzi's signatures on the notes he issued.

Checks given Ponzi for notes turned out to be no good, but the "investors" kept the note, probably cashing it when his office was at its busiest and thus avoiding careful scrutiny of the paper.

GIRL ATTACKED NEAR HOME IN WILMINGTON

Wilmington, Sept. 3.—Miss Ruth Justice, seventeen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Justice of Chestnut street, was attacked and brutally beaten by an unknown man while on her way to her home here.

Miss Justice left a train from Boston at the Wilmington depot and aware that she was being followed ran up Burlington avenue. When near her home she was seized and when she screamed was beaten over the head with a sharp instrument.

She was assisted to her home, where several stitches were taken in an ugly wound in the top of her head. Her assailant escaped in the darkness.

HANNA DEFENDS SECRETARY

Says Wife Is Jealous of 'Woman of Exceptional Qualities'

Chicago, Sept. 3.—Miss Ruth Hanna McCormick, daughter of Senator Hanna of Ohio, today defended the secretary of whom his wife was jealous.

"I had to live not lived with Mrs. Hanna for two years.

Mrs. Hanna in a recent interview at Stockbridge would not admit there was any necessity for a reconciliation between herself and her husband.

Mr. Hanna said that when his wife came here a fortnight ago, he was ill.

She was admitted immediately," he continued. "She was rude to my secretary, my housekeeper and my maids. I suppose a reason is extreme and unjustifiable jealousy of my secretary who is a young woman of exceptional qualities.

"I have not lived with Mrs. Hanna for two years. When Mrs. Hanna came here without warning after an absence of several months she walked right in as she does. No one tried to stop her. She is absolutely so much that she had to call upon a policeman. She had been in the house for some time before she called upon the police, and there was no need for her to do such a thing.

"My secretary left for her home, but as soon as Mrs. Hanna went away she came back."

MILK MEN VOTE TO STRIKE

Ultimatum From Drivers Is Delivered to Dealers; Want 4 Days Off a Month

The members of the Milk Wagon Drivers' Union, No. 380, have voted to strike. The action of the drivers was taken at Wells Memorial Building meeting as a result of the refusal of the dealers to grant four days off each month, in addition to the recently awarded $40 weekly wage scale.

Business Agent Jeremiah F. Driscoll, chairman of the wage committee, today visited the dealers delivering the ultimatum of the drivers. The vote for the calling of the strike, if such action is necessary, has been placed in the hands of the wage committee.

The original demand of the union was for an increase of $7 per week from their existing scale of $35 per week and four days off each month in place of three, which is now granted them. Following several conferences, the dealers made a compromise offer of an increase of $5, bringing the scale to $40, but refused to grant the extra day.

SEARLES' WILL BEFORE COURT

Preliminary Hearing in Big Contest Over Bequests Expected Next Tuesday

With millions of dollars involved, the contest over the will of the late Edward F. Searles of Methuen, which will be heard in the Essex County Court at Salem, promises to be one of the most sensational in the history of the Bay State.

Papers in the case are returnable next Tuesday, at which time it is expected a preliminary hearing will be held. Attorney William R. Scharton has filed an appearance for Albert Victor Searles, nephew of the elder Searles, who was left only $250,000.

It is expected that the office of Attorney Sherman L. Whipple will also file an appearance for the younger Searles.

Appearance has already been filed for Albert E. Walker of New York, who was left the bulk of the estate. It has just been ascertained that Angelo Milton Ellison, former New York bellboy, and protege and confidant of Edward F. Searles, cannot be located at his apartments in New York nor at Pine Lodge in Methuen. He is believed to be in hiding from those who would like to question him regarding his dealings with the late multi-millionaire.

Palmer Expects to Prove American Woolen in Conspiracy With Jobbers

By Universal Service.

Washington, Sept. 3.—The Department of Justice is making a new investigation into the American Woolen Company to see if it has not been guilty of violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Recent cancellation by the company of nearly $100,000,000 in orders, it was learned at Attorney-General Palmer's office, is the chief subject of inquiry.

The investigators expect to prove that many jobbers are in conspiracy with the manufacturers. It has been reported that these jobbers have manipulated contracts in such a manner as to give the woolen company an excuse for cancelling them.

Although the recent action against the company for alleged profiteering was dismissed on the ground that wooden cloth is not wearing apparel within the meaning of that act, the Attorney-General believes the ruling will be reversed by the Supreme Court, where an appeal already has been filed.

The whole matter of order cancellation will be considered at a series of conferences between representatives of the National Association of Credit Men and the United States Chamber of Commerce in New York next Monday.

You Can't Brush or Wash Out Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most, if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—Advertisement.

BICYCLE EDITOR IS SWAMPED WITH ENTRIES FOR RUN

Another bicycle has been added to the five already announced as awards for meritorious riding in the Boston American's big bicycle run, Sunday afternoon, September 12, from Copley square to Chestnut Hill reservoir. The latest addition is an electrically equipped Black Beauty bicycle, valued at $75, which has been donated by Manager Halliday of the Haverford Cycle Company, No. 874 Washington street.

All of these bicycles will be displayed in the centre of Boston's downtown business district next week. The location will be announced later. These bicycles are all of the best known makes. The last one to be donated is to be awarded to the oldtime rider who displays the best form while riding on his old high wheel, known to followers of cycling thirty years ago as "the good old ordinary."

WANTED—OLD TIMERS.

New oldtimers it's up to you! You've got something to work for. For many years you've been telling your friends what "dead-to-rights" you used to be. Here is a chance for you to make good and show your friends you're as young as you used to be.

Boy! Page "Jim" McGinley, James Feltis, Alex Kettle, "Patsy" Clark, Arthur Porter, Frank Gibbs, "Bob" Young, John Wilson, Richmond G. Steele and E. S. Freeman.

The other bicycles to be awarded for the best appearance during the run and for the best exhibition of trick riding are the Indian, Henderson, Harley-Davidson, New England and Rexycycle. Each of these machines is valued at $70.

RUN IS FOR PLEASURE ONLY.

Many of those who have entered their names for the run seem to still be under the impression, despite what has been printed in the American that this is to be a race. Nothing could be farther from the truth could be farther from the truth. Racing will not be tolerated. This is to be simply a ride for health and pleasure. There will be no racing either along the route or at the destination.

St. Onge Shows How to Stand Still

Remember that every rider will be presented with tickets at the start entitling him or her to free souvenirs and refreshments. The Boston American will present a small United States flag to each rider. Riders are requested not to decorate their wheels in any other manner.

Charles A. Hogan, superintendent of parks of the Boston Park and Recreation Department, has taken personal charge of doing away the crowds at the rendezvous near the fountain. A portable platform is to be erected there for accommodation of the entertainers. Areas will be roped off for the parking of wheels and automobiles. Every possible facility to make it comfortable for participants will be arranged for by Hogan and his staff.

ENTRIES POUR IN.

Entries poured in on the American's bicycle editor during the past twenty-four hours. Men, women and children in all parts of Greater Boston sent in their names and addresses. An interesting letter was received from William J. Griffin, of No. 23 Eastman street, Dorchester, who entered his own name and those of two chums, Daniel E. Sullivan, No. 7 Elder street, and Frank Burgess of Roslindale. He wrote "We will be there to see the old timers' bikes. Ours are better, well bet." You may be very mistaken, William. However, we shall see.

Seventeen-year-old William Helder, Jr., of No. 37 White place, Brookline, entered his name and that of his sister Gertrude. He also wrote: "I'd like to know if I could take my sister along. Esther, aged six, on the carrier of my bicycle. I've taken her about that distance before." Certainly, William, have your little sister come along.

In the accompanying illustration Fred. St. Onge, director of the Boston American's bicycle run to Chestnut Hill reservoir, Sunday, September 12, shows how to stand still on a wheel. This is a trick that any boy or girl can accomplish in less than thirty minutes by closely following the instructions.

This is one of the first tricks ever performed on a bicycle by St. Onge. He says to place the left foot on left pedal, left hand on front wheel tire, right hand on right hand grip. Tilt wheel to left and move wheel back and forth with frame leaning at a slight angle from the body.

Tomorrow Mr. St. Onge will illustrate another stand still trick that can be easily accomplished.

The bicycle editor likes to see boys of your age take an interest in giving their little sisters pleasure.

Additional riders of renown who have promised to take part in the run are Alec McLean, Pat Logan, Jimmy Hunter, Charles Turville, Freddie Hill, George Chapman, Clarence Carman, George Wiley, Frank Cleary, Charlie Stein, Dick Cronin, Mike McNeil, Pete Van Riper, "Skip" Kimball and Bob Lisle. All of these men have figured prominently in the cycling history of the world.

What's in back of the advertising?

TOO OFTEN advertising is 100% advertising, or nearly so. Which is to say that the effort is put into the advertisement rather than what is in back of it.

You would be interested, if you could be on the inside of the Filene establishment, to see how much more effort is put into having good things to advertise than is put into having good advertisements!

Filene advertising simply tries to mirror the facts. It aims at putting the major part of its efforts into giving better values, into showing the newer things sooner, into making this a better kind of store.

And it puts the minor part of its energies into telling of these things.

Our advertising corps meets the question, "How large an advertisement can I have?" with the Yankee trick of answering by another question, "What good news can you provide to advertise?"

And it is interesting to know that in addition to putting our efforts into better merchandise rather than better advertising, that this is a Filene policy:

"Advertise what the public wants, not what we want to get rid of."

REDS GAIN ON TWO FRONTS

Occupy Several Villages North of Brest Litovsk; Advance in Crimea

London, Sept. 3—Russian troops have reached Brest Litovsk, it is claimed in a Russian wireless dispatch from Moscow today. The Russians claim also to be holding up the Polish attacks in the Lemberg sector.

By International News Service.

Paris, Sept. 2.—Bolshevik gains on the Polish and Crimean battlefronts were claimed in a Soviet War Office communique wirelessed from Moscow today. It says:

"Twenty miles north of Brest Litovsk we occupied several villages. We have occupied Zamosc. The enemy on the Crimean front who was attempting an offensive has been thrown back across the Dnieper River. Fighting continues with alternate successes."

U. S. Will Not Hasten to Aid Poles as Result of Note

Washington, Sept. 2.—Poland has decided to fight Soviet Russia to a finish, according to the interpretation of officials here today upon the Polish note to America. While officials here refused to make any comment, the inference was plain that this government would not strain itself to aid Poland.

Secretary Colby in his note to Poland, after stating that the first Polish invasion of Russia helped the Bolshevik cause, suggested Poland make a formal declaration of its intention to refrain from territorial aggressions in Russia, that increases in those forces were not against a united Russia and that Poland remain within the ethnographic boundaries fixed by the peace conference.

The Polish government in its reply ignores these requests and says Poland is playing a lone hand and that from a military standpoint she must rely on her own strength and be governed by military necessities.

BRIDGEPORT SLAYER MAY PLEAD INSANITY

Bridgeport, Ct., Sept. 3.—Elwood B. Wade, confessed slayer of George B. Nott, may plead insanity as a defence, according to reports in police circles. It was stated following the coroner's hearing, at which Wade, with amazing nonchalance took the witness stand, but refused to testify, that the defendant will also attempt to introduce a suggestion that Nott had threatened to "get" him. Charges of first degree murder have been lodged against Wade and Mrs. Ethel Hutchinson Nott, the victim's widow, who has been friendly with Wade for three years.

New Destroyer Arrives

The destroyer Pruitt, recently built at the Bath Iron Works, was delivered to the government at the Charlestown navy yard and immediately was placed in commission.

18,000 Teacherless Schools in U. S.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Eighteen thousand schools in the United States were teacherless last year, according to the Department of the Interior. This was due in large part to lack of homes for teachers in rural districts. Nobody wants to board them.

Consolidation of schools and amalgamation of school districts is suggested as a temporary remedy.

$15,000 FIRE THREATENS OLD LYNN TERMINAL

Fire of unknown origin caused $15,000 loss in the wooden two-story building at Nos. 260-262 Broad street, Lynn, owned by the estate of Terrence A. Newhall. Flames threatened the old wooden station of the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn railroad which was directly across the street, but continued efforts of the firemen saved the building from damage.

Worcester, Sept. 3.—Worcester firemen and policemen are preparing to present to Mayor Peter F. Sullivan and Worcester's City Council petitions for general pay increases of 25 per cent. in both city departments.

GREENE CO. IN $505,000 SUIT

Offices in New York and Syracuse Are Attached for Alleged Breach of Contract

New York, Sept. 2.—Charging a breach of contract, Mark O. Prentiss of this city has filed an attachment for $505,000 against the H. V. Greene Company, Inc., of Boston.

On the attachment, filed in the Supreme Court here, Prentiss alleges that the defendant company failed to comply with a contract to promote the United States Clearing House of Foreign Credits, Inc., which Prentiss planned to organize as an international rating bureau, dealers in investment securities, with offices at No. 291 Broadway.

Prentiss also alleges that after he introduced John J. Arnold as a suitable person as a director, Arnold was induced to become executive officer of the corporation the defendants were promoting and was made secretary to Mr. Greene.

Sergeant Connelly and Patrolman Murray of the metropolitan district police, Revere Beach station, last night arrested a man giving the name of John D. He is charged with having attacked an unidentified girl by attempting to cut off her braid while she was standing in front of one of the amusement places at the beach. SULGRAVE SOUGHT MILLIONS TO ANGLICIZE U. S.

INSTITUTION PLEADS FOR LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Provincetown, Sept. 3.—Millions of dollars were thought necessary by the Sulgrave Institution, which dominated the recent Pilgrim tercentenary here with Anglo-American propaganda, for the consummation of its plans. At least $250,000 was considered necessary by the British and American heads of the organization to carry out its plans for its "educational" project and public celebrations in connection with the Pilgrim tercentenary.

From January 1, 1919, to January 1, 1920, the organization received $42,639.50. In the same period it expended $14,193.96, although, according to its own statement, it "pays no salary and gives no honorariums to any of its members; the chairman and other officers serve without remuneration and salaries are paid only to the office force and to a financial secretary and manager."

Its official publication, the Sulgrave Review, the third issue of which came to this town in the possession of New York representatives of the organization who took charge of the "local" celebration here, disclosed the fact that despite plans for a widespread propaganda in connection with Pilgrim celebrations here, this is but a minor item in the plans for the body's future.

Here is the story as revealed in a section of the Review, headed "Sulgrave's Prospective Foundation Endowments":

"The following items relate to the general plan and purpose of The Sulgrave Institution, in reference to the erection of foundations and endowments to enable it to carry out some of the purposes for which it was organized. Several of these items are in prospect of consummation, but generally speaking, the institution makes appeal to its supporters early in the year for contributions, big and little for any of the following purposes:

"To purchase the birthplace of George Washington, including original house, land, etc., transportation, unveiling, etc., St. Paul's Cathedral, London, England, $5,000.

"To meet cost of land at George Washington birthplace, including memorial house, etc., transportation, unveiling, etc., Liverpool, $5,000.

"Bust of George Washington for Sulgrave Manor, ancestral home of George Washington, Northamptonshire, England, $1,500.

"Portrait of George Washington for Reigate, England, $1,500.

"Twelve British and French scholarships, New York State Agricultural School and high school at Morrisville, Madison County, N. Y., $1,200 each, provides for six scholarships, $6,000.

"Two scholarships, Colgate University, $2,000.

"Six scholarships, three for men and three for women, Alfred University, $3,000.

"Thirty-four scholarships for Cambridge University, England, two for each college, each annually, $3,500.

WOULD EXCHANGE WRITERS.

"For tercentenary celebration, to carry out educational plan and public celebrations, $25,000.

"Note—Sulgrave's plans include a general educational campaign in free institutions of the English-speaking world, with particular reference to development of same, beginning with Mayflower Compact, and meeting of the first Legislative Assembly, Jamestown, Virginia, July 30, 1619.

"Item—Endowment fund for Sulgrave institution, including annual budget, purchase and maintenance of a house as permanent headquarters, as well as to found a popular chair to be known as 'The Sulgrave Institution Professorship' income from $100,000.

"Item—For publication first four numbers of Sulgrave Quarterly Review, $10,000.

"Note—It is the expectation of the Institution to make the Review self-supporting after the publication of the first four numbers.

"Item—Sulgrave Lecturership Bureau, to include a corps of lecturers, use of moving pictures, stereopticon, educational monographs and other educational publications—income from $1,000,000.00.

"Item—Exchange of scholars of secondary schools—i. e., American boys and girls to England, Canada and elsewhere and here and girls from various parts of the British Empire to America; high schools, etc.—income from $1,000,000 or more.

"Item—Exchange of working newspaper men among international committees of editors, under which plan a number of American newspaper men will be invited to take up a few years' residence in various parts of the British Empire, or elsewhere in the world, for purpose of study and, conversely, an equal number of newspaper men from various parts of the British Empire and elsewhere, to take up a few years' residence in the United States, the ultimate purpose being to educate and enlighten a corps of highly trained specialists in interpreting the life, spirit, principles, ideals and institutions of the English-speaking nations the one to the other. To carry out this plan will require an annual expense for each person of between $8,000 and $10,000. This would necessitate, in order to make the work effective, the income from an endowment of $2,500,000 up."

BITS ENRICH OF SCHEME.

Referring to its accomplishments in the cause of British-American friendship, the Review tabulates its results in the following paragraph, where a significant reference is made to opponents of the movement.

"Specifically, apart from a number of international conferences, held to further American-British friendship, in New York, Boston, Montreal, Ottawa, and cities of the Canadian West, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Philadelphia, Richmond, New Orleans, St. Augustine, St. Louis, Detroit, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Paul, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, and in numerous other cities and towns, that part of the Centenary Celebration which was held despite the war brought together hundreds of thousands of people, inspired the American and British press to treat the subject with liberal publicity, which brought literally before millions of people at ceremonies in churches and in convocations elsewhere the criminal folly of permitting those whose motives were against the world's best interests to drive a wedge of hatred between the Republic and the Commonwealth.

URGED NEW HOLIDAY.

Especially significant is the suggestion of James H. Darlington, Bishop of Harrisburg, embodied in the Review, and hence officially indorsed by the Sulgrave, for a new holiday, to be known as "Interdependence Day."

"One reason why the United States did not more quickly enlist in the World War," this reads in part, "was, perhaps, an overconfidence in the invincibility of Great Britain and the feeling that she did not need our aid. "As soon, however, as it became apparent that through the power by baym of German submarines the food supply of the British Isles was in danger, and when General Haig cried out that England's heroes were 'fighting with their backs against the wall,' the United States regretted its delay and did all it could to add with arms and men, with ships and money.

PLEADS FOR LEAGUE.

"Perhaps a few years later we may be able to arrange for a September or October celebration which we may name Interdependence Day, which even the four horses St. John saw in the Apocalypse can never break because it is formed, not by the ambition or through the contrivance of men, but for the peace and prosperity of the world; and may we ask in prayer the great Father to give His blessing on this English-speaking union for freedom and righteousness, so that 'what God hath joined together' no man can put asunder."

Headed "Futile Effort to Prevent Friendship" is a diatribe against unnamed and mysterious foes of the organization, in which the Sulgrave comes out frankly for the League of Nations:

"Never has there been such a keen desire on the part of Americans to further friendship among English-speaking peoples as is manifest today, despite the subtle endeavors of reactionary influences that would drive a wedge between America and Great Britain.

"This effort is causing some annoyance, but if and all similar efforts to make enemies of America and Britain are utterly and absolutely futile in staying the great movement towards better understanding among English-speaking peoples.

MOORE FAILS TO GIVE FACTS

"Slush Fund" Committee Declines to Question Cox Manager on "Hearsay"

Chicago, Sept. 3. — Ed. H. Moore, pre-convention campaign manager for Governor Cox, who came here as the representative of Cox, was not called before the Senate committee which is investigating campaign expenses, because he told members of the committee that he had no substantial evidence to give. He added, however, that he could give "leads" that if developed by the committee would prove Governor Cox's charge that the Republicans are raising $15,000,000 in an effort "to buy the presidency."

"We want facts," he was told. "Not hearsay evidence."

Committeemen differed in their opinion as to whether he should be called to the witness chair and as a result the members went into executive session. When they emerged Senator Kenyon announced that the hearing would be adjourned until next Tuesday.

Moore will be called before the committee then, however, and given an opportunity to prove statements he made to newspaper men during the time that the committee was in secret session.

When shown Moore's interview, Senator Kenyon immediately issued a subpoena for him.

In his interview Moore said:

"I can prove that Atlanta's quota alone to the Republican party was $15,000 and that it was all collected before June 4, and that the man who collected it was so disgusted with Senator Harding's nomination that he quit the party."

Treasurer Upham had previously certified that the entire State of Georgia had only raised $5,000. It was because of this statement that Moore will be called.

SUFFRAGE LEGAL, SAYS ROBERTS

Tennessee Governor Assures Leaders Ratification Will Stand

Washington, D. C., Sept. 3. — Governor Roberts of Tennessee has given assurances that the ratification of the suffrage amendment by the Tennessee Legislature will stand as legal, despite the rescinding action of the lower house, according to advices received by the National Woman's Party here.

These assurances were made to Governor Cox and L. A. Cantril, Democratic leader, over the telephone from New York by Miss Alice Paul.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 3. — The Senate reversed its action of Wednesday by receiving the House's message relative to its action in voting to non-concur in the suffrage amendment resolution and ordering it spread upon the Senate journal. This was done by a vote of twenty-one to five, seven Senators abstained from voting.

THREE TRUCKS CARRY AWAY SEIZED WHISKEY

New York, Sept. 3.—Barkeeps and barflies in the tenderloin are not greatly wrought up over the series of raids on saloons in the district. Three heavy auto trucks were kept busy hauling illicit whiskey from the raided places to a warehouse nearby.

Whiskey is still easy to get anywhere along the theatre district. The prohibition men who made the raids said that at no place was any great quantity seized. The raiders worked throughout the night and in the morning hours also.

By JACK CONWAY

Lew Tendler, Philadelphia's candidate for the lightweight championship, believes a left-hand punch will get the decision over a right-hand wallop every time. He argues that a southpaw fighter gets the same snap into his swings that Babe Ruth and Ty Cobb do when they smash out their long drives.

The history of the ring shows that most of the left-hand fighters are not as fast as the right-handers. They are usually a little awkward in getting across their blows. Punches delivered by southpaws, however, seem to have a million dollars' worth of power behind them.

Give the records of the star left-handers the well known X-ray and you will agree with this statement. New York Knockout Brown flattened his opponents until the sporting public got dizzy trying to keep count of the casualties. Eddie Fitzsimmons rocked some of our best little ring gladiators to sleep. Joe Tiplitz keeps pounding out victories. Then there is Danny Krammer who also socks with his left.

Tendler has gained the greatest amount of fame in the left-hand league. As a money-maker, he even has Babe Ruth beaten which is saying a whole lot. Over in Philadelphia Tendler gets between $8,000 and $10,000 every time he bumps some aspirant for ring honors on the chin. Not poor compensation in these days of profiteers.

Tendler will try to prove the left-hand is king when he collides with Frankie Callahan in a twelve-round bout at Johnny Cuddy's open-air arena at Lawrence Monday afternoon. Callahan avers the right is faster than the left and is sure he will get the verdict.

Commercial Club to Be Dark Tonight

There will not be any show at the Commercial Club tonight. Bob McKirdy couldn't get a suitable attraction and so decided to keep the Commercial Club dark for this week. McKirdy has lines out for a bang-up card for next week.

Breakers Ahead for Jumping Boxers

The Boxing Commission will deal a solar plexus blow to the boxers who jump their managers. Under modified boxing it will be possible for a manager to have a contract with a ring star. And if the boxer tries to jump his contract the manager can go into court and prevent him from appearing at any Massachusetts clubs.

Open Golf Matches

Open golf matches are scheduled for tomorrow at the Vesper Country Club, Lowell, and the new Scituate Golf Club.

With the free-for-all pace the feature of the getaway program of the Readville Grand Circuit meeting, another large crowd was expected to visit the famous two-minute track today and get a final glimpse of the country's greatest harness horses.

The feature event seemed certain to develop into one of the best contests of the week, for in addition to the steeds which already have been mentioned as starters the name of the Tennessee pacer, John R. Braden, a son of the famous John R. Gentry, 2:00¾, was very recently added.

Boston horse lovers were also interested in the outcome of the Metropolitan, an event open to 2:20 trotters owned and driven by members of the Metropolitan Driving Club. At least nine of the best that the Hub amateurs can produce were expected to start in the race.

Wasted Time on Information Calls

In Greater Boston every year 18,000,000 questions are answered by information operators. One-half are for numbers listed in the telephone directory.

The 200 information operators employed in the Metropolitan Division waste hundreds of hours daily in giving out these numbers.

These wasted hours affect operating efficiency on regular calls, cause excessive holding of lines and abnormal use of our switchboards.

Please do not ask "Information" for a number until you have first looked in the telephone directory and failed to find it.

To assist in maintaining good telephone service, our information operators, when answering calls for numbers listed in the telephone directory, will refer the person calling to the page number in the telephone directory on which the listing may be found.

"Information" is always ready to give numbers of new subscribers and other changes not listed in the directory.

Lifting the Lid

I WAS told yesterday that if I announced my price this Fall at $3.85, it would turn the hat industry upside down and inside out—but I'm going to lift the lid and take the consequences. I'm going to sell hats without profit this Fall, and give the final wallop to the High Cost of Living in the High Price of Hats.

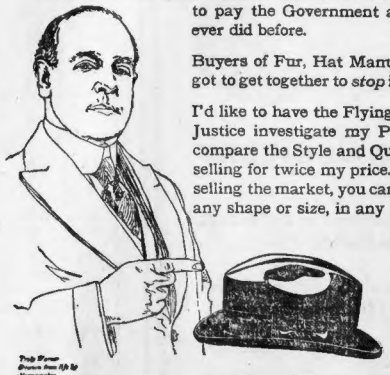
The public have been on a "Buying Spree" for the last couple of years, but they're on a "Buying Strike" today. I'm going to break that strike by breaking the price of hats.

If you'll help me bring 100,000 new customers in my stores this month you'll see the High Price of Hats begin to tumble, and you can get under cover right now for $3.85.

In the first place, the Fur Market is fictitious. The rabbits in Australia don't know anything about the price of fur in America. The fur that I bought four years ago at $1.50 a pound, is now quoted at $11 a pound, and there is no rhyme or reason that can justify this price.

Manufacturers whose raw materials advanced as the market went up have figured fur at the "peak" and quoted prices accordingly. They got "theirs" on the way up, and they don't want to let go on the way down.

The Retailer has paid what he had to, and charged what he wanted to, in order to pay the Government and make more money than he ever did before.



Buyers of Fur, Hat Manufacturers and Retailers have all got to get together to stop it, and someone has got to start it.

I'd like to have the Flying Squadron of the Department of Justice investigate my Prices and Profits this Fall, and compare the Style and Quality of my hats with other hats selling for twice my price. If they don't stop me for underselling the market, you can have any new Fall color or style, any shape or size, in any soft hat or derby, at $3.85.

They're all one Price $3.85

Boston Market Has a Strong Opening and Coppers Improve; Curb Tone Heavy

Strength was displayed by Boston stocks at the opening of the local exchange and the market had ordinary breadth and was fairly active, according to its standard. The price range was narrow, particularly as regards the leaders. After Tuck sold at 8 a.m. for the first recorded sale point, issues in advance from one to two points were Alaska Gold, Granby, Agricultural Chemical, United Drug and Edison. The gains were made in a few trading lots. Coppers were a little more active, with North Butte most in evidence. It made the largest gain in the class.

Among issues to make fractional advances were Utah Metal, Hancock, Royale, North Butte, New Cornelia, Bighorn, Mexican Investment, Swift International, United Shoe and American Tobacco.

Issues to show small losses included Reece & Maine, Utah Apex, Hill, Elder Swift & Co. and Gray & Davis.

CURB HAD A HEAVY TONE.

After an irregular price movement at the opening, the curb developed a rather heavy tone. Early leaders were Arizona Tip Top, Bagdad, Eureka and Mutual. Subsequent strength included Tip Top, Bagdad, Denbigh, Homes and Ruby, while weakness was Cascade and Mutual.

At the end of an hour Ruskies was up 1 cents at 3; Arizona Tip Top was off 2 cents, at 15 cents; Mutual 5 cents, at 50 cents; Crystal, 1 cent, at 26; and Bagdad, 1 cent, at Montana 2, at 56 cents. Tip Top had lost 15 cents.

OIL ISSUES UP IN NEW YORK

Steels Also Make Gains and the Market Trend Is Generally Upward

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, with oils in the lead. Steels and equipment were among issues to make the best showing. Rails and motors were irregular. All kinds of stocks were below the morning highest. The market was active, first-hour transactions aggregating about 160,000 shares. Call loans were renewed at 7 per cent. In the foreign exchange market, demand sterling opened at 3.54¾, off ¾ cent; francs at 7.16½, off .03½; lire at 4.94.67, marks at 1.92.01.

Stocks to sell at the highest prices thus far attained this year were Delaware & Hudson and New York, Chicago & St. Paul. Issues to make the largest gains include Crucible, Mexican Petroleum, Barrett and National Aniline. Losses run from two to four points at their best.

HAD A STRONG START.

Oils and rails were the most active groups at the opening, when prices were higher. In most instances gains of a fraction were made at the start, but trading was more than two points on its first sale. It soon lost most of the advance. Steels were also active at the start. Not much was done in motors. Baldwin was the only equipment to make an early appearance. Little was done in coppers, which came into prominence yesterday for the first time in several days. Trading was of less volume than yesterday and up to mid-morning the market had the hesitancy often observed on the eve of a holiday. At the exchange will be closed tomorrow and Monday there was a disposition to go slow in regard to commitments. Profit taking began quickly and at the end of thirty minutes prices ruled below the opening level. While the list showed a number of losers, the day for the first time in several days closed strong. Early trading was of less volume than yesterday and up to mid-morning the market had the hesitancy often observed on the eve of a holiday. At the exchange will be closed tomorrow and Monday there was a disposition to go slow in regard to commitments. Profit taking began quickly and at the end of thirty minutes prices ruled below the opening level. While the list showed a number of losers, the tone was still good. At the end of an hour the market was stronger than at the start.

LOW MONEY A FACTOR.

The low money rate of yesterday contributed to strength and activity. The turnover amounting to more than three-quarters of a million shares. It was the most active session in three weeks and showed a higher price level in spite of realization sales. But in financial circles it is said that an easier rate for money is only temporary. The thawing out of "frozen credits" has released a large amount and a sharp reduction in the demand, which, coupled with decreased borrowing demand, while liquidation by speculators in commodities is said to have begun, will lead to the toward increasing the supply of funds, for a quarterly payment of Federal taxes will have a contrary effect and crop-moving requirements will be held to greater volume.

Banker John J. Mitchell said in Chicago: "There is no promise of easy money in sight at the moment. Our strain may be relieved by one of two things. Congressional action or a general slowing down in business. Congress should revise our taxes relief would be had almost immediately."

July Sets All Oil Record

According to the Geological Survey July oil production was 28,419,000 barrels, a high record." But consumption exceeded the output by 2,887,000. Production for the second quarter of this year totaled 112,645,000 barrels while consumption amounted to 130,958,000.

Cotton Market Opening

New York, Sept. 3.—The cotton market displayed notable weakness at the opening with prices 50 to 85 points lower. Lower Liverpool cables and reports of mills a possibility and there was lack of buying power. Interior receipts failed the market and at the end of twenty minutes the market was 50 to 55 points lower. Opening prices were: October 26.50, December 24.90, January 23.95, March, 23.60, May, 23.20, July, 23.15.

New York Sub-Treasury Loss

New York, Sept. 3.—The sub-treasury lost $2,727,000 on the day's clearings and the cash net loss since Friday of $1,140,000.

U. S. LEADS WORLD AS FINE WOOL CONSUMER

That Americans are better clothed than formerly is shown by this country's increased consumption of better grade wool. W. H. Chard, the oldest Australian wool exporter and president of W. H. Chard Company, Ltd., said on his arrival in New York from England:

"America has, since the war, become quite the largest consumer of finest wools, which before the war was less than 100,000 bales a year, but in 1916, when the British government bought the supply, exports to United States had increased to 450,000 bales. Without United States help, Australia can never get rid of her annual clip, which will sell on a lower first-cost basis, and this reductions sure to come quickly. America can take at least 750,000 balea."

Corporation Earnings

Montgomery Ward & Co. reports that August sales increased $431,360 and that the total for eight months was $14,598,296.

The corporate income account of the St. Louis & San Francisco road for 1920 is as follows after taxes and charges of $152,051, for the preceding year it reported surplus of $125,586, which was equal to $1.67 a share on 57,500,000 preferred. Its Federal income shows earnings before charges of $6,267,160, against $4,737,327 last year.

The Continental Can Corporation's earnings of $643,962, before Federal taxes for the first half of this year compare with $1,035,258, after Federal taxes, for the eight months ended December 31, 1919.

For the first six months of 1920 gross earnings of the Mullins Body Corporation amounted to $723,342, and there was a balance for the six months after all charges and reserve for Federal taxes of $2,220.

For the six months ended with June this year the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation reports net earnings per four weeks (including $100,529 for previous years) net profits of $2,294,370 equivalent after preferred dividends to $8.50 a share on 212,222 shares of the common stock standing for the net earnings of wholly or partially owned subsidiaries for the corresponding period in 1919 were $1,935,253, equivalent to $14.97 a share on 174,630 shares of common stock standing.

The Rhode Island Co. reports for July an increase of $134,000 in operating revenue over 1919, for the corresponding month, when there was a strike. Operating expenses increased $37,042. For seven months gross was $4,845,220 and net income $679,676.

Direct Primaries Will Not Be Immolated Upon the Altar of Mr. Burrell

There is one feature which we do not like of the campaign against State Treasurer Burrell led by our reactionary Republican friends, and followed somewhat eagerly by a few former Progressives, who found their way from the Democratic party to the old guard Republicans through the Progressive corridor and who seem to be enjoying their new associates.

The attack upon Mr. Burrell, if confined to Mr. Burrell, may or may not be legitimate, according to the facts revealed at the close of the controversy. But the attack on direct primaries through Burrell is illegitimate and will prove to be vain.

It is quite apparent that the main drive is not against Burrell, but through Burrell against the direct primaries. We have a strong suspicion that not even the secondary drive is at Burrell, but is also through Burrell for the restoration of the old banking favorites whom Burrell has apparently supplanted for new ones. This is as yet but a strong suspicion. We await Mr. Burrell's further explanations to confirm or refute the suspicion.

But we do know that the main drive is at the direct primaries. The politicians, both Democratic and Republican, have been attacking the direct primaries ever since they were passed. The American stated that the reform would probably not work well until the people became used to it and became used to the curves of the new type of politicians who would seek demagogically to exploit the people's good nature and credulity through the direct primary law. The Democrats have had a good deal of trouble with the direct primary law in the beginning, because certain generally unknown men, with skins as thick as rhinoceros and with an enormous "gall," with no public service and with nothing at all to recommend them, but seeking advertising for business purposes, entered the primaries relying upon the fact that they had an Irish name to pull them through in places where the Irish-American voters predominated at the primaries.

Now, there was a great deal of swearing by responsible party leaders under their breath at the early success of these kinds of birds, and they gave this as a reason why the direct primary should be abolished. Yet, not one of them dared denounce the practice of these men or denounce the men themselves.

But the American, still believing in direct primaries, did denounce the practice and the men, and those who watch political events will agree that the practice is rapidly dying out. The vote which these men are receiving upon the strength of their names is rapidly diminishing. You cannot fool any large class of people all the time, and every large class in our community want the best men if they know who they are.

Mr. Burrell may be immolated upon the altar of direct primaries, but our reactionary Republican friends and our reactionary Democratic politicians can make up their minds that the direct primaries will not be immolated upon the altar of Mr. Burrell. Fortunately we have the Initiative and Referendum and the people will have something to say about surrendering their power to choose their candidates for office. Mr. Burrell may have been guilty of unethical conduct. We do not say that he was. And if he has, it may be that he will show that it was a usual thing in his office, and that this hue and cry is not raised against him on this account. But whether he can make this explanation or cannot, there is nothing in his conduct which indicates the failure of the direct primaries.

The old convention system REGULARLY nominated worse men than Mr. Burrell, even if he were as bad as his enemies paint him.

Let those who, either for public or private reasons, believe that Mr. Burrell ought to be defeated, continue their campaign by all means if their object is merely to get him out of office and they think they can make out a good case against him. But those who think they are on the trail of direct primaries had better drop out of the chase, for they are baying up a back track and the scent will get colder and colder, so far as direct primaries are concerned.

Why the McCall Attacks?

Governor McCall is unsound in our judgment upon the League of Nations. But that is no more a Republican than a Democratic issue. It is an American issue, and both Republicans and Democrats ought to be against the League of Nations.

Governor McCall has always been rather an independent. He was an independent in Congress, voting frequently against Republican party measures. This did not prevent him, however, from being drafted by the Republicans to rescue them from the Democratic party's dominance in this State. His unforgivable independence was when it took a progressive direction.

Moreover, there is a rumor that if Senator Harding is elected, Senator Lodge may become Secretary of State and thus there would be a vacancy in the Senate to which Mr. McCall may aspire.

It may be to destroy this possibility that these present attacks upon our war Governor are being made.

Sidewalk Cleaning Law

At the suggestion of the American the City Council has passed an ordinance forbidding the practice of cleaning our sidewalks under conditions which merely sweep the filth off into the mouths, eyes, noses, ears and hair of the passersby. Thus, the City Council has done all it can to stop the bad practice. Now it is the duty of the police department to enforce the ordinance. We doubt if the abutters are aware that there is such an ordinance, for the practice does not seem to have been discontinued in some sections of the city.

For example, Tuesday, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, when the sidewalk was absolutely jammed with people, two abutters were sweeping off the filth from their sidewalks upon the passersby between Scollay square and School street on Tremont.

Attempt of British to "De-Americanize Americans"

By Edward F. McSweeney

At a meeting held at the Hotel Bellevue, Boston, November 7th, 1919, called by the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce, and attended by representatives of twenty-three organizations in and about Boston, then considering the problems of "Americanization," the chairman of the "Americanization" committee of the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce called attention to the effort then under way to use the schools, motion pictures and stage in the United States to undermine national pride and self-respect and eventually to make the people of the United States ashamed of, and apologetic for, the events which gave it a separate national existence. It was also pointed out that the campaign was then centralized in the effort to change the history of the American Revolution in history textbooks, and solemn warning given that a special effort was under way to utilize the Pilgrim Tercentenary to elbow off the stage of American events all but one of the racial elements, which, during our national history, contributed to the making of the nation.

The fear, thus expressed ten months ago, has been more than justified. On Sunday, August 29th, the principal speaker at Provincetown was the Rev. Charles A. Eaton of Nova Scotia, and formerly pastor of Tremont Temple, and now the editor of Leslie's Weekly, and on Monday night, Mrs. Geo. Maynard Minor, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Neither in Dr. Eaton's nor in Mrs. Minor's address was there anything but the most indirect reference to the causes and personalities that brought about independence. The obvious and open intention of both speakers was to emphasize the claim that the only worthy racial influence in the country "is the Anglo-Saxon."

Dr. Eaton's Words

Their audience was insulted by calling much more than a majority of their hearers "mongrels," "polyglots," etc.

Dr. Eaton said:

"The Anglo-Saxon stands apart from all other men . . . For 300 years after the landing of the Pilgrims this nation developed as an Anglo-Saxon nation. The original Pilgrims gave us our language, our literature, our laws, our spiritual ideals and created for us the genius of the American soul. Shall we surrender this priceless heritage to the Pilgrims of the modern steerage who come today following no star, allured by no dreams . . . The America of the first two centuries was homogenous in race, in ideals, in political concepts . . .

"The America of today is polyglot. . . . Shall we continue to develop our nation in accordance with the ideals of the first two centuries, or shall we surrender to the incoherent, polyglot, mongrelized forces which have swept like a raging freshet over our civilization within the last hundred years?

"If we are not we who are not willing to submit ourselves to the tyranny of a kaiser are not willing to submit ourselves to the more cursed tyranny of an ignorant, peasant mob gathered from the purlieus of Europe."

What Mrs. Minor Said

Mrs. Minor said:

"We are English even as they—English in our language, English in our history and tradition. Other nationalities have helped to found this country, but they have become Anglicised in the end, and here as everywhere the English have gone the Anglo-Saxon race has predominated . . .

The society which she claims to represent "is organized originally to cherish and uphold the traditions of those who made us a nation. If the Minor speaks the sentiment of the society it has no excuse for their existence.

There was considerable more in the same tenor, but the above extracts are typical of the whole. As it was feared ten months ago, this great patriotic event is being made a machine for de-Americanizing America. The statement that the races which have come in since 1820 are "incoherent, polyglot, mongrelized forces" is not only insulting to 75 per cent. of the people of the United States, but is as ignorant, impudent and unpatriotic a falsehood as was ever uttered by human lips.

No Change

As a matter of fact there was no change in the character of the racial forces which went to make up the United States for 240 years after the landing of the Pilgrims, or until 1880. From the very beginning diverse races came into this country, and continued to come here in substantially the same proportion as the population until forty years ago. Governor Seymour of New York picked out the seven men in the original history of the section recognized as the leading men in its political life; Livingston, Scotland; Jay, France; Clinton, Ireland; Morris, Wales; Herkimer, Germany; Hoffman, Sweden. The nearest we can come to the "Anglo-Saxon impulse" is through Hamilton, who was born of Scotch and Creole parents in the English West Indies.

Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey were peopled as Theodore Roosevelt said in his life of Gouverneur Morris: "By men of diverse nationalities, so that at the outbreak of the Revolution only a minority of the inhabitants of these States were of English origin."

The position taken by Dr. Eaton and Mrs. Minor is most harmful, because based on the half-truths of which are the most powerful agents of falsehood. The claim that everything good in the history of the United States is due to the "Anglo-Saxon impulse" is an indirect way of making the demand that 20 per cent. of the population in the United States who by any stretch can claim descent from English stock must be allowed to determine and control the policies of this country, excluding from equal membership in the great American democracy the right of participation to Latin, Slav, Scandinavian, Celt or Jew.

Such a program is a breeder of discord and of hatred, and, whether so intended or not, of disunion and disorganization. It is an invitation to Bolshevism, because when we take away pride of country, what is left of patriotism?

The tercentenary celebration of the landing of the Pilgrims gives a wonderful opportunity to cement all the peoples of the United States in a bond of friendly reverence to the wonderful work the Pilgrims began in this country, which, however, they did not do as "Anglo-Saxons," because they did not know what this term meant, except as representing a language. Since the time of King Alfred the term Anglo-Saxon had no ethnic significance until in the latter part of the 19th century it was revived as a cult, for the benefit of English propaganda.

As far as the Pilgrims are concerned, the Anglo-Saxon tradition is a myth. They came here as rebels from English authority. The inspiration planted in America by the Pilgrims was that all men are created equal, and endowed with certain inalienable rights, including life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, which, reborn and cultivated on this soil, could not be a heritage from England, because it is not even accepted in that country today.

Considered All Forms

Beginning with the Pilgrims and until the Declaration of Independence the colonists in the United States had considered all forms of government, of which there were available records, including three forms of English government, i. e.—Absolute submission under the Stuarts, Charles I and II; parliamentary government under Cromwell, and constitutional government under William and Mary. The Pilgrim fathers had the advantage of having lived in Holland, and knew the ideals of the Dutch Republic, which, with those of the Hebrew Commonwealth, based on the principle that all men are equal, and God alone is King, gave the makers of the Declaration of Independence the formative principle.

It was the Pilgrim fathers who adopted the first compact; they devised the town system; they gave rebirth to the "town meeting," which, brought into England by the early Teutons, had been dead for over a thousand years. The institutions created by the Pilgrim fathers under those conditions cannot under any conditions be credited to the Anglo-Saxon impulse.

Changed English Law

The Pilgrims established the fundamental principle of democracy by the abolition of primogeniture, the basis of English institutions. They established universal education; they declared that every child was born free; they asserted the right to divide the burdens of all feudal burdens; they abolished entails. They did this in spite of not because they were English, because their utmost courage and steadfastness was required to maintain their free institutions against the Stuarts, Cromwell and the House of Hanover.

Dr. Eaton, Mrs. Minor and their associates are preaching a doctrine which, if accepted, will abolish the pride of America in its history, and to accomplish this are basing their claims on wilful perversions of historical facts.

English-speaking peoples have no monopoly of glorious achievements in tradition and noble ideals. In all the pages of human history men, regardless of race, have striven, each up to carry on the light of truth and liberty. When we attempt to take from the 70 per cent. of the population of the United States the credit for their racial contribution to the progress of world civilization we are depriving them of the greatest incentive to patriotism.

When Europe was finally saved for Christianity and from Mohammedanism it was done by people of Anglo-Saxon, but by a Frank, Karl Martel. It was John Sobieski, a Pole, who repulsed the Turks outside of the walls of Vienna. It was Portuguese mariners who discovered the sea routes to India. It was an Italian who discovered the western world. The French and Dutch colonists in America were established almost simultaneously with those of the English. It is a true story, but undoubtedly true fact that in the United States there is scarcely a political or legal institution of English origin, and, more than this, few of the features of American civilization and American democracy have come to us by way of England.

Deliberate Injustice

To shut out, as is being attempted, all the races but the English for credit for the formation of the nation, for its progress in science and mechanical arts, for its advance in health, charitable, prison and poor-law administration, is a deliberate injustice to the other races which have done so much for the extent inspired this country.

The attempt to utilize this patriotic celebration of the Pilgrim tercentenary to promulgate unpatriotic, un-American doctrines to foment the alien, to malign the fathers, deserves the contempt that will undoubtedly receive from the American people. That Dr. Eaton and Mrs. Minor can thus safely openly promulgate such doctrines under such conditions is ample proof of the patience and toleration of the American people, who are acting on the advice of Thomas Jefferson, when he said:

"If there be any man who wishes to dissolve this union and its Republican forms, let them stand undisturbed as monuments of the safety with which error of opinion may be tolerated where reason is left free to combat it."

Letters to the Editor

Bigney Makes Charges

Editor Boston American:

I appeared before the executive board of the American Federation of Labor on my charges that the legislative agent of the American Federation of Labor, Charles J. Hodson, had wilfully and deliberately misstated legislative records in favor my opponent for the Senate, William H. McDonnell.

I contended that if such untruthful indorsements could be given by the legislative agent of the American Federation of Labor, then they were not worth the paper that they were written on. I further characterized such action as a deliberate and pernicious betrayal of organized labor.

I produced in evidence, to substantiate my charges, copies of the legislative journals and bulletins of the A. F. of L. compiled by Mr. Hodson himself, which showed that during the session of 1919 Mr. McDonnell had been absent—not voting—on two out of the nine labor measures on which the 100 per cent. labor indorsement was granted. The 1920 bulletin produced showed that McDonnell was absent on the most important labor measure of all—the bill authorizing cities and towns to provide shelter for their inhabitants in cases of emergency. It is my contention that McDonnell's absences were simply ducking his responsibility to the people to vote on measures for the common good.

The climax was reached when I offered in evidence the report of the Street Railway Commission (public document) which showed that Mr. McDonnell, sitting as a member of that commission in 1919, had concurred in the unanimous report of the commission favoring the enactment of the anti-strike law, which would prevent street railway employes from exercising their protecting rights to strike; and I demanded to know, in view of Mr. McDonnell's failure to dissent, why Hodson had dared to write a letter to the carmen's union attempting to show that Mr. McDonnell fought the anti-strike bill.

Hudson, legislative agent, surprised his hearers by replying: "It is none of your business. I'll send any kind of a letter to any organization or any person whenever I see fit."

When the old-age pensions and maternity benefits measures to protect the people at old age and mothers at childbirth which are in the Democratic platform and have been indorsed by the A. F of L.) were before the Legislature, McDonnell, as floor leader, lent no effort to have them enacted into law, but let them die, when his efforts might have saved them and brought to the people the happiness and protection which they provided.

I desire to call the attention of the people of South Boston to the uselessness and valuelessness of an indorsement of organized labor if such legislative agents as Mr. Hodson are allowed to make them for candidates such as McDonnell when the records of labor and the Legislative Bulletin prove such candidates unworthy.

Lose 50,000,000 Horses for Lack of a Harness

It is a familiar prophecy that our coal beds cannot last indefinitely, though the time for their giving out is usually fixed so far in the future that the prophecy loses force. But when it is suggested with seeming authority that the oil wells of America will last but twenty years we are confronted with a forecast that obviously presents a serious menace to our own generation.

Peculiar interest attaches, therefore, to a summary that appeared recently in the Electrical World, estimating the waterpower neglected in this country. The total potential waterpower in the United States is placed at not far from sixty million horsepower; whereas the developed waterpower is less than ten million horsepower. In other words, a bulk of water capable of developing fifty million horsepower is permitted to run down our mountain slopes and flow to the sea unutilized.

The greatest waste of waterpower occurs in the Pacific States, where only about six per cent. of the available waterpower is utilized, and in the mountain States, which waste all but seven per cent. . . .

Even New England, which makes by far the best showing, utilizes only seventy-seven per cent. of the potential power of its streams.—Dr. Henry Smith Williams in Hearst's for September.

War and Debt

The huge debts of all countries are mainly due to wars. In addition to its direct and immediate horror, war hangs a millstone of permanent taxation around a nation's neck. The world war, for instance, added 7,267 million pounds to Great Britain's debt, which in December, 1919, amounted to around 40 billion dollars. This table shows how every war has swollen Britain's debt:

	Increase
British National Debt.	Millions.
1697 Wars of William III.	£17
1714 Wars of Ann.	23
1749 Spanish-American Wars.	31
1766 Seven Years' War.	57
1785 American War	116
1817 French Wars	612
1903 Boer War	172

FOUR YEARS ago.
I WROTE one day.
OF LOSING a pin.
FROM OUT of my tie.
AND A letter came.
ON A later day.
FROM A prison cell.
IN A nearby place.
AND THE writer said.
IF I'D get him out.
AND SHOW him a pin.
THAT I'D like to have.
HE'D REPLACE the pin.
THAT I had lost.
WITH THIS other pin.
AND, OF course, he joked.
AND I wrote to him.
AND IT came about.
THAT IN a month.
HE WAS on parole.
AND HE went to work.
AT AN honest job.
AND THEN war came.
AND HE went to war.
AND CAME back home
AND BACK to work.
AND MARRIED a girl.
AND AWHILE ago.
HE WROTE me a note.
OF A new arrival.
IN HIS three-room home.
AND THE other day.
HE CALLED me up.
AND WANTED to know.
IF HE might come over.
WITH HIS baby girl.
AND I said he might.
AND HE came along.
AND BEGAN to brag.
ABOUT THE baby.
AND IT never cried.
AND WAS always good.
AND HE gave it to me.
AND I talked to it.
AND IT poked my eyes.
AND PULLED my tie.
AND MUSSED my collar.
AND ALL at once.
IT BEGAN to scream.
AND I couldn't stop it.
AND GAVE it back.
AND IT kept on screaming.
AND HE took it home.
AND A little while later.
HE TELEPHONED:
"THE KID had your scarfpin.
"IN ITS hand.
"AND WAS pricking its finger."
AND SURE enough.
IT HAD swiped my pin.
